Who you are at work and who you are alone at 2am aren't the same person.

Jung called the public one the persona, the mask.

It formed early.

The loud kid went quiet, the sensitive kid got tough.

You shaped yourself to stay safe, then built a whole life on the shape.

By 40 it's hard to tell where the mask ends and you begin.
The achiever with nothing left to achieve, who's underneath?

The crack usually comes through crisis.

Burnout or loss, the mask
stops holding, and the self starts trying to surface.

The work isn't killing the mask.

It's seeing it clearly, and taking it off when it matters.
